The law is changing - 25th May

It's nice to keep in touch.

In the past, you've been kind enough to share your contact details with us. However, new General Data Protection Regulations require we ask you about the ways you'd like to stay in touch.

The new laws are a positive step towards giving you more control and confidence regarding your personal data, in order to keep it safe and secure.

Our updated Privacy Policy sets out the data we hold and how we keep it safe. Please find attached our privacy policy document

You have the option of choosing how you wish to be contacted - by email, post, SMS or phone – or inform us if you do not want to be contacted again.
